Nina Sommerfeld studied law at Humboldt University in Berlin and spent a year abroad at the Universidad Complutense in Madrid as part of her studies.

After passing the First State Exam, she gained initial professional experience in a corporate law firm specializing in business law.

She completed her legal traineeship at the Brandenburg Higher Regional Court, with stages including the Senate Department for Urban Development, Construction, and Housing, as well as a renowned German corporate law firm.

In May 2024, she successfully passed the Second State Exam and worked in the legal department of a well-established real estate company before joining Leinemann Partner Rechtsanwälte.

Since November 2024, she has been strengthening the team at Leinemann Partner Rechtsanwälte's Berlin office, advising clients primarily in the area of private construction law.
